Governor Rowland has proclaimed this week, February 2, 2003, to be Connecticut Nonprofits Week.

In honor of the 11,000 nonprofit and philanthropic organizations throughout the state and the 150,000 dedicated people who work for them, the Governor, along with the Connecticut Association of Nonprofits would like to urge all citizens to join them in recognizing the enormous contributions nonprofits make.

These organizations improve the quality of life for women, men and children of all ages and incomes, all races and religions, all backgrounds and beliefs. Nonprofits provide vital services and give voice for important social change.

This week, the Connecticut Association of Nonprofits is launching an educational awareness campaign to put a face on the essential value of nonprofits. The goal is to make their work and mission real through the faces, features and hearts of those served, and those who serve others.

Be a part of the solution! Encourage support for your local nonprofit organization so they may continue to serve the people of Connecticut for years to come.
